Health Board Faces Loss of Aid

Must Pick Director By July 1

State Official Issues Order

The city-county health department was threatened today with the loss of $18,000 in federal grants-in-aid if a full-time health commissioner is not appointed by July 1.

"If it becomes obvious that the health board is not seriously trying to get a new man and is refusing prospective applicants without good reason, then the money will be cut off," Dr. John D. Porterfield, state health director, told The News-Journal in a telephone interview.

Meanwhile, Dr. R. B. Moyer, health board member, said that a prospective applicant, now in public health work in West Virginia, had promised to come to Mansfield either this or the following Friday for an interview.

Dr. Porterfield recommended the West Virginia man to the local health board. He said the prospect was an experienced public health official and holds a master's degree in public health.

AID FOR SALARIES

The state health director said that if the West Virginian is shown to have all the needed qualifications for the post and the local city-county health board turns him down without a satisfactory reason and fails to secure a man by July 1, the aid will be cut off.

"The $18,000 is not given to the health district in cash," Dr. Porterfield explained, "but is used to pay the salaries of several state nurses, for the services of doctors who work at the cancer diagnostic clinic and other items."

"The aid would be cut off if a man is not secured," he said, "not only because this department feels that it shouldn't be granted to a district with a part-time commissioner, but because the surgeon-general of the United States would charge the money to the state if we paid the federal funds to a district with a part-time commissioner."

VACANT SINCE MARCH 1

Mansfield has been without a permanent health commissioner since March 1 when Dr. Fred O. Tonney resigned to take a public health post in Shelbyville, Ill.

Dr. A. C. Biddle has been serving as acting health commissioner during the interim. Since he continues with his private practice, he is considered a part-time commissioner.

It was learned that one of the difficulties facing the local board in securing a new permanent health commissioner is that the local salary of $6,090 is lower than in most comparable health districts.

Board Member Frank Mayer said today the board had discussed the possibility of raising the salary of the health commissioner.

"It (the raise) will probably be recommended in the 1949 budget," Mayer said, "but I can't say just how much of a raise will be agreed on."

Pick Stassen, Vandenberg

(By Associated Press)

Mock Republican conventions at Ohio Wesleyan and Case Tech last night nominated Harold E. Stassen and Sen. Arthur Vandenberg, respectively, for president.

However, Vandenberg wrote Oberlin college that "I neither seek nor desire any 1948 (presidential) nomination." Oberlin's mock convention selected Vandenberg last Saturday.

"Nonetheless, your compliment is good for my morale and I send you my warmest greetings and sincere thanks," the Michigan senator added.

Bound Over In Attack On Ex-Boxer

Jones's Sister-In-Law Pleads Innocent

Frances Rachel Merrit, 44, of 185 Crystal Spring avenue, pleaded innocent in municipal court today to a charge of shooting with intent to wound her brother-in-law, Richard D. (Honey Boy) Jones, 33, former Mansfield boxer. She was bound to the grand jury under $2,000 bond.

Mrs. Merrit told police the shooting Monday on East Temple court was the outgrowth of an argument that started in the C. and P. club, 188 North Main street, managed by Jones.

"I got excited and didn't mean to shoot him," Mrs. Merrit told police during questioning yesterday. Jones was shot in the right side of the face with a 32-caliber pistol as he sat in his car on East Temple court near Main street.

Mrs. Merrit's case is expected to be presented to the September term grand jury. The May grand jury completed its session last night.

Jones identified Mrs. Merrit as his assailant, police said. Officers said they learned the shot was fired as Jones attempted to get out of the car during the argument. The bullet glanced off Jones's upper jaw and shattered, a piece lodging in the front of the neck and another behind the windpipe, physicians said. His condition is reported good at General hospital.

Bandits Get $2,000,000

BANGKOK—(AP)—The criminal investigation division announced between 20 and 30 armed bandits today stole an international gold shipment valued at $2,000,000.

The shipment was en route to Maco from India on a KLM (Dutch) plane that stopped at Bangkok overnight.

The bandits, disguised as Siamese police and soldiers, halted a truck carrying 120,000 grams of gold to the customs house for safe keeping.

International air traffic from Bangkok was suspended until noon while police searched planes to prevent the gold being flown abroad. Police recovered $200,000 worth of the gold, but failed to capture the bandits.

Overture To Reds Denied

Point Clarified By Marshall

Compiled From Wire Services)

WASHINGTON — (UP) — Secretary of State George C. Marshall today rejected all suggestions that the United States and the Soviet Union enter into negotiations on major international problems affecting other countries.

Marshall denied that U. S. Ambassador Walter Bedell Smith had asked for "any general discussion" with the Russians.

"What we want is action in the fields where action is possible and urgently necessary," he said in a statement to a news conference.

He said he referred to such existing international machinery as the U.N. security council, other United Nations bodies, and the Allied Control council in Berlin.

Marshall's statement was his first direct comment on the Soviet Union's announcement that it was ready to enter negotiations with the United States.

The statement was designed to make clear the role of the United States in the discussions between Ambassador Smith and Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov which resulted in current talks of "cold war" peace.

Jews Gaining In Palestine

British Will Hand Over Jaffa

JERUSALEM —(UP)— Jews won major bloodless victories in Palestine today and the British grip which has held the Holy Land for 30 years eased in the waning hours of the British mandate.

The British agreed to turn over to the Jews the big Arab port city of Jaffa. Jewish Haganah forces in Jerusalem were set also to seize the strategic buildings of the Holy City.

Columns of British troops wound out of Jerusalem as the British forces all over Palestine prepared to fall back to their final evacuation beach-head at Haifa. The mandate ends at midnight Friday.

An official communique of the British-ruled Palestine government—perhaps the last communique that government ever will issue—said that British High Commissioner Sir Alan Cunningham will leave Jerusalem with the last of his troops sometime Friday.

At one minute after midnight, he will board the British cruiser Euryalus, in Haifa harbor, signifying the end of the British rule of the Holy Land.

At one minute after midnight also, Tel Aviv advices indicated, a new Jewish state, probably to be called the "State of Israel," will be proclaimed in the all-Jewish city of Tel Aviv. Its first premier, and defense minister, will be David Ben Gurion, 66-year-old white-haired Polish Jew who for 40 years has fought for a Jewish state in Palestine.

Phone Strike Threat Looms

WASHINGTON —(AP)— A possible nation wide strike of long-distances telephone operator hinges today on a new government try at settling the union-company wage dispute.

John J. Moran, president of the CIO American Telephone Workers union, said a strike date will be set if the government negotiations fail.

"Nobody pays much attention to you until you inconvenience them," Moran told a reporter. "I guess John L. Lewis has the right idea."

Repairs Again Recommended

Jury Finds Jail Wiring Hazardous

Another Richland county grand jury has rapped facilities at the aging Richland county jail and found a hazardous condition in the electric wiring.

The May term jury, following inspection of the jail late yesterday, called for repairs to lighting, cell blocks, and plumbing.

Many juries during the past 20 years have called for construction of a new jail or extensive improvements to the old structure. Most of their recommendations have gone unheeded except for an occasional repair project.

The jurors, in a report last night to Common Pleas Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch, said they found that plumbing fixtures are leaking and the cell blocks need painting. They added that more natural lighting should be provided.

At the same time, the jurors said they found the jail clean and sanitary generally. The grand jury report was signed by Thomas D. Brown, foreman.

The jurors recommended that the leaking plumbing fixtures be repaired and that all of the cell blocks be repainted.

Other juries have called attention to the fact that the women's quarters are cramped and outmoded and there are no facilities for juvenile delinquents or mental patients.

Movie Film Causes Riot

NEW YORK —(AP)— Thousands pouring out of theaters near Times Square last night were swept into a milling throng of rival pickets, clashing over the movie "The Iron Curtain."

Fist fights broke out, and the yells and catcalls rose above the roar of traffic.

Almost 200 police—some riding horses on the sidewalks—struggled with the pickets a half hour before clearing the area. Five persons were arrested, one accused of punching a policeman.

Traffic halted in some places and slowed to a snailpace in others as pickets who identified themselves as members of the New York Committee Against War Propaganda marched in front of the Roxy theater. They carried placards protesting the movie.

Members of the Catholic War Veterans had waited at the scene four hours for the rival pickets to show up.

Fights between a half dozen on each side started after a woman distributing leaflets assailing the film scuffled with a policeman.

The film, scheduled to start today at the Roxy, is advertised as "based on the personal story of Igor Gouzenko, former code clerk, USSR embassy in Ottawa, Canada."

Big Shopping Days Set

Retailers Offer Bargains

Bargain days come again for Mansfield area shoppers Friday and Saturday. Sixty Mansfield retailers will join in sponsoring the spring "Greater Mansfield Day."

V. H. Lodde, secretary of the Retail Merchants association, said the stores had made special purchases of spring and late winter merchandise to offer at mark-down prices on the two days.

In addition, all stores will display their complete stocks of summer merchandise. A full-page "Treasure Hunt" feature in Thursday's News-Journal will list special offerings for the bargain-seeker.

"Greater Mansfield Days have been sponsored by the association for the past 15 or 16 years," Lodde said. "We feel the days afford an opportunity for shoppers from the entire Mansfield territory to take advantage of special buys."

All participating stores will display yellow and black signs in the windows.

Madison Picks 2 Coaches

Walker Named Grid Mentor

By FRED THARP

Ennis Walker, Lima, and Blaine Dowler, Toledo, today were announced as the new coaches for Madison high school.

Walker will coach football and track and assist in basketball. Dowler will instruct in basketball and baseball and assist in football. Walker also was named as head of the Ram physical education program.

The Madison board of education interviewed six applicants last night before offering one-year contracts to Walker and Dowler.

The six were culled from a list of nearly 20 applicants for the positions left vacant by the resignation of Head Coach Jeff DeHaven and Richard Bailey, assistant basketball coach.

DeHaven, who coached both football and basketball, recently was appointed head football coach for Sandusky high school.

Bailey resigned to continue his studies at the University of Wisconsin. His wife resigned as elementary music teacher at Madison.

Draft Bill Has Trouble

Act Bumps Into Segregation Issue

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Senate's military manpower bill bumped headon today into the explosive race segregation issue.

Even before the compromise measure blending a five-year draft revival with a voluntary training program for 18-year-olds hit the floor officially, angry southern senators promised a red hot fight.

And when southerners talk fight in the Senate they often mean filibuster.

What they want is a provision in the bill guaranteeing every enlisted man the right to serve only in a unit of "his own race."

Senator Russell (D-Ga) asked the armed services committee to approve such an amendment yesterday, but the committee turned him down, 7 to 4.

Senator Maybank (D-SC), who cast one of the losing votes, served this warning on his colleagues:

"The day that this bill comes to the Senate floor I will make speeches and offer amendments until the issue is cleared. It cannot be allowed to pass in its present form."

Newsmen who asked Chairman Gurney (R-SD) whether the segregation question might jeopardize the compromise bill finally worked out were given this reply:

"I am not making any forecasts but I sincerely wish that issue never had been raised."

Japs Prepare For Bull Fight

TOKYO—(AP)—Four big bulls, decked out in fancy brocade robes and silken sashes, arrived today and went into training for Tokyo's first Japanese style bull fight.

The bulls will be put in a small ring Saturday with their horns locked. The first bull to shove his opponent out of the ring or to his knees wins.

American occupation authorities will witness the fights to determine if the sport constitutes cruelty to animals.

N. Fairfield Fire Loss Set At $150,000

Fireman Injured Fighting Flames

NORTH FAIRFIELD—A $150,000 fire last night destroyed the W. L. Mead Trucking company terminal here.

The fire followed a flash explosion that occurred while two mechanics, Dale Prelipp and Reginald Phillip, were draining a truck's gasoline tank.

Both employes escaped injury in the explosion, but Fireman Elmon Hoyt of North Fairfield suffered minor injuries in a fall while fighting the resulting flames.

President W. L. Mead, who estimated the firm's loss, said three tractors, tires and tools, oil and gasoline and about 30,000 pounds of freight were destroyed.

Fire departments from Greenwich, Willard and Norwalk helped North Fairfield's volunteer firemen in the five-hour battle that attracted hundreds of spectators.

The company has a new terminal nearing completion in Norwalk, eight miles north of here.

Rail Rivals Cool Heels

WASHINGTON—(INS)—A "cooling off" period appears to be in store today for rail unions and management before any further attempt to settle the wage dispute which led to federal seizure of the carriers and a court order against a threatened strike.

With the roads operating normally under army control, the government showed no immediate signs of renewing its mediation efforts or urging the parties to resume bargaining on a new agreement covering 150,000 engineers, firemen and switchmen.

One source said that nothing may be done to iron out the wage controversy until after a hearing May 19 on the anti-strike injunction issued by Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough.

The unions plan to challenge the legality of the order and to resist the government's petition for a permanent injunction.

Singleton Seeks Release on Bail

CLEVELAND—(INS)—John W. Singleton, convicted Cleveland new-used car swindler, was to make a final effort in Cuyahoga county common pleas court today to get out on temporary bail.

The possibility of bail came up at a hearing today at which Morris R. Blanc, trustee in bankruptcy for Singleton's collapsed used car business, asked that Singleton be held another week before transfer to the Ohio penitentiary.

16 Plants Closed By Walkout

Picket Line Established

DETROIT — (AP) — A strike of 75,000 CIO employes of the Chrysler corporation began today, halting production in 16 plants.

Negotiations broke down Tuesday night on wage demands of the CIO United Auto Workers. The union scaled its 30 cent an hour demand down to 17 cents without success. The best company offer was six cents an hour.

The Chrysler production workers average about $1.50 an hour now.

It was the auto industry's first major strike since November, 1945, when the UAW-CIO walked out at General Motors corporation to begin a 113-day siege.

It was the first big strike at Chrysler since 1939.

Picketing began at one of the main gates of the Highland Park plant a few minutes before the 9 a. m. (EST) strike deadline.

There were no reports of any disorders.

Police Commissioner Harry Toy said the union had promised to let non-striking office and maintenance help "go in and out as heretofore."

PROMISES HARSH ACTION

Norman Matthews, head of the union's Chrysler negotiators, told a UAW-CIO meeting last night that "since Chrysler has forced us into the position of striking, we will give them the damndest strike they have ever seen."

General Manager Herman L. Weckler of the corporation, said that, despite the strike, the company is "still willing to discuss the situation and to arrive at a reasonable settlement."

Negotiations had been under way since Feb. 27 on the UAW's demands for a 30-cent hourly wage boost, pensions, insurance and other benefits.

Weckler, in a statement last night, repeated the company's contentions that "wage increases would inevitably contribute to another rise in prices, another rise in living costs, and consequently would not increase employes' purchasing power."

He said Chrysler had offered its workers raises equivalent to $10,000,000 a year, but that the union asks $28,000,000.

GOVERNOR ISSUES DEMAND

Michigan's Governor Kim Sigler called on the UAW to comply fully with a state law, which require taking of a strike vote prior to any walkout.

Emil Mazey, UAW secretary-treasurer and acting president during the convalescence of Walter P. Reuther, had contended that the state law does not apply since Chrysler has plants in more than one state.

Sigler told a news conference at Lansing yesterday that if the men walked out without a strike vote he would "expect the prosecutor of Wayne county to do his duty."

Prosecutor James B. McNally said he was "studying" the situation, but gave no inkling whether he would go into court in efforts to halt the strike.

Indications that the UAW might be digging in for a prolonged strike came from Secretary-Treasurer Mazey who announced that a special $1 strike assessment was contemplated against the union's 1,000,000 members next month.

Jury Indicts Pen Convict

COLUMBUS —(AP)— An Ohio penitentiary convict was indicted on first degree murder charges yesterday in connection with the fatal stabbing of two guards April 19.

The Franklin county grand jury returned two true bills against John Thomas, 34, of Dayton, in the deaths of Guards Walter W. Zimmer and S. P. Chesshir.

Thomas was charged with stabbing them with a knife after escaping from a hospital strong ward. He was sentenced for a Montgomery county burglary.

Ex-Court Justice Drives Too Fast

CINCINNATI —(AP)— Common Pleas Judges Charles Bell was found guilty in municipal court yesterday of speeding 54 miles an hour.

Bell, a former Ohio Supreme court justice, was fined $21 and costs and lost his driving privileges for five days. Judge Clarence Denning granted a 10-day stay of execution.

Four Assistant Coaches Picked

CHICAGO —(INS)— The college all-stars' board of strategy for their Aug. 20 football game against the Chicago Cardinals will be completed tonight with announcement of a fifth assistant for head coach FrankLeahy of Notre Dame.

Blair Cherry of Texas and Wally Butts of Georgia were named to assistant coaching spots last night, joining Bob Higgins of Penn State and Jeff Cravath of Southern California.

Will Try Again

CHICAGO —(INS)— Maywood park officials will make another effort tonight to get their harness racing program underway. The inaugural was washed out for the second time in a row last night following a heavy downpour that made the track unsafe for the horses.

Clevelanders Tumble Into Second Spot

NEW YORK—(AP)—Gene Bearden, the Cleveland Indians' promising southpaw with the puzzling knuckleball delivery, will attempt to put the Tribe back into the victory column tonight in a battle against the jinx of Yankee stadium.

The age-old "hex" on Cleveland teams worked overtime yesterday as the Indians lost several scoring opportunities and stumbled to a 4-1 defeat at the hands of Allie Reynolds, who was traded to New York by the Tribe.

Ironically, it was Joe Gordon, who was received from the Yankees for Reynolds, who committed the most costly bobbles. Gordon's error on a third-out grounder in the fourth led to the final Yankee score after his wide throw permitted New York's third run in the third inning. This miscue, on the end of a double play, did not enter the record books.

GETS SHAKY START

Bob Lemon went down to his second loss, against three wins, after being the victim of a shaky start. Charley Keller's double, Bobby Brown's single and Joe DiMaggio's long fly gave the Yankees a pair of tallies in the first off Lemon.

Keltner cut New York's lead to 3-1 with his 10th home run of the season into the left field stands. An umpire's decision that Eddie Robinson's drive into the stands was foul and a bleacher catch of Gordon's long drive earlier that inning cost the Indians a pair of runs.

Reynolds then turned on steam in the clinches the rest of the way to notch his fifth straight triumph, the fourth in a row for New York and the end of a five-game Cleveland winning streak. The loss tumbled Cleveland into second place, 21 percentage points ahead of the Yankees.

MEETS ED LOPAT

Bearden, who came within one out of blanking the Washington Nationals in a brilliant first start last week, was slated to oppose Lefty Ed Lopat in tonight's tilt. Lopat, an Indian nemesis of long standing, holds a lifetime record of 12 wins in 14 starts against Cleveland.

Bob Feller was named to hurl against the Yankees tomorrow in the finale of the three-game set and the Indians' initial tour of the eastern parks. The Tribe returns to Cleveland for a long home stand Saturday.

Al Hager Shoots 33 In N-J League

Al Hager made golfing headlines again today with the best round of golf turned in on a local course this season. Hager shot a brilliant 33 over the tough par 36 Possum Run course yesterday to help the News-Journal 'A' league off to a fast start.

Three other men gave par a beating, including Ray Dillon who shot a 34, and Cedric and Bernie Mathias with one-under-par 35's.

Evidence of how close the championship race may be was shown when each of the four matches was decided by low medal score. Two men won and lost on each team. Smokehouse defeated Blue Goose, Penn Auto nosed out Flexible Conveyor, Orr Typewriter took the measure of Meyers Supply and Ideal Billiards won over PD's Bar.

Rollie Rachel got the only eagle of the day on the 329 yard par 4 fourth hole. Rachel sank the pill with a 6 iron, from about 140 yards out.

Two extra hole matches were played. Pete Zeides beat Ed Blonston on the first extra hole and Bob Henry defeated Dana Moxley in one extra.

Preakness Field Narrowing Down

BALTIMORE —(AP)— William Helis' Salmagundi popped up today as the latest question mark in the fast diminishing field for Saturday's Preakness.

If Salmagundi goes, it'll probably be a five horse field. If not, then four are due to start. Without the Helis horse, the field probably will consist of Citation, Bovard, Vulcan's Forge and Better Self.

Dillard raced to his 64th straight win yesterday against Baldwin-Wallace, and Saturday he'll run three more races. If he wins the first, he'll tie Greg Rice's record of 65 straight wins and anything after that will set a new mark.

Reynolds Shooting For 30 Victories

By CARL LUNDQUIST

NEW YORK—(UP)—Winning 30 games in a season is an ambitious chore, one unaccomplished since Dizzy Dean turned the trick with a 30-7 record on the 1934 Cardinal staff, and Indian Allie Reynolds wasn't optimistic today about coming up with such a record with the Yankees.

"A guy would have to go every fourth day, rain or shine, and then he would have to be lucky," Reynolds said. "Of course I have been lucky so far."

But Reynolds, who won't be used every other day in relief as Dean was in 1934, still looks like he might be a good bet to come close to Dizzy's mark. And he will get the luck that he insists is part of the deal if the Yankees keep backing him up as they did yesterday in their 4 to 1 triumph over the Cleveland Indians. In that game Reynolds scored his fifth straight win to build up his record as top pitcher in the majors.

ALLIE IS LUCKY

He was good, but he was also lucky as he scattered nine hits and would have had a shutout but for Ken Keltner's fourth inning homer, a homer which by the way, was Keltner's 10th of the season, putting him ahead of Babe Ruth's 1927 record-setting season. Ruth, who got his unequalled 60 homers in that year, didn't get his 10th homer then until May 22.

Reynolds, at his present pace, could start 40 or more games and if he keeps up without interruption, might make that magic 30-game mark.

The Red Sox got squared around at the expense of the laggardly White Sox, breaking a five-game losing streak with an 8 to 0 victory in which Jack Kramer hurled six-hit ball and gave no walks and Vernon Stephens hit two homers. Bobby Doerr also hit a homer.

REGAINS LEAD

The Philadelphia Athletics regained the American league lead under the lights at Philadelphia with an 11-inning 3 to 2 victory over the Browns, the ninth win in a row for the A's. But victory didn't come gloriously. Pete Suder's walk with the bases loaded forced in Ferric Fain with the winning run.

In the other night game, Vic Wertz' two triples gave Detroit a 4 to 1 decision over Washington at Washington.

The Phils made it three in a row over the Reds at Cincinnati, mainly due to the efforts of Del Ennis who hit a homer, two doubles and a single in a 4 to 3 triumph. It marked the fifth straight loss for the Reds who went deeper into the National league cellar. Relief Pitcher Ed Heusser, third of three Philly pitchers, was the victor.

This Fellow's Tough

ATHENS —(AP)— Ted Cunningham normally plays second base for Athens high school, but yesterday he was allowed to pitch his first game—against Jackson. He came through with a no-hit, no-run victory, 6-0.

Miami U. Defeats Ohio State, 5-4

COLUMBUS —(INS)— Ohio State's Bucks could testify today that the mid-American conference brand of baseball is just as tough as that played in the Big Nine.

Miami's mid-AM pennant contenders nosed out the Bucks, 5 to 4, yesterday.

Brooks Lawrence, winning Miami hurler, scattered 12 OSU hits. Gene Brown and Dick Magato of the Bucks gave up only five safeties.

LONDON —(AP)— Little Louise Suggs of Atlanta, Ga., the United States champion, is America's chief hope in the British women's amateur golf tournament beginning May 31.

Tyger Reserve Baseball Team Wins 2nd, 7-6

The Senior high reserve baseball team won its second game of the season against one defeat yesterday, edging Johnsville varsity, 7-6, at Liberty park.

Johnsville collected 14 hits against the home clubs 7 but Dave Hardy and Lefty Dave Marks pitching for the little Tygers kept them well scattered. It was the reserve's only scheduled game of the week.

Plymouth 9 Advances In Meet, 5 to 1

PLYMOUTH—Cornelius Vanderbilt, one of the finest athletes in Richland county, pitched Plymouth to a 5-1 victory over Bettsville in a quarter-final game of the district tournament yesterday.

Vanderbilt let Bettsville down with one hit while his mates were collecting ten for an easy victory. He fanned only four men, indicating the fine support given him in the field. Ronald Trauger and Louie Root, with three hits each, paced Plymouth.

The Pilgrims were scheduled to meet Wakeman today in a semi-final game.

(Brown Brothers photo of the Wright Brothers' first flight. Kittyhawk, N. C., December, 1903.)

Nothing ventured... nothing gained!

No one guaranteed the Wright Brothers that their "box kite" airplane would fly... but it did! No one could be certain that the years of planning, the hopes and dreams, the effort, the hard-earned dollars would pay off in achievement... but they did!

Once again, man's willingness to venture had paved the way for progress.

In a free land such as ours everyone plays a part in one venture or another. Some contribute ideas—men like the Wrights, Edison, Bell, Steinmetz, De Forest. Some carry out ideas—the managers and workers. Some provide the necessary money for tools, factories, raw materials and wages—the investors.

Of all these, the role of the investor is least known, least understood. The individual who sets aside part of his income for investment in industry is but one of millions of similar risk-takers, scattered through all walks of life, unorganized and unrecognized. Yet, without the venture dollars provided by these thrifty citizens, the nation's production of goods could not increase, its standard of living could not rise.

The New York Stock Exchange, as the nation's principal market place for investors, believes there is urgent need for a governmental policy—particularly a tax policy—that gives every individual an opportunity to save, and an incentive to put his surplus dollars to work for the benefit of all our people.

Tax Change Proposed to Boost Soil, Water Conservation

Would Give Inducement To Farmers

Feature Put In Revision Bill

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The House ways and means committee has approved a plan to give farmers a better income tax break if they spend money on soil and water conservation.

The plan was originally sponsored as separate legislation by Reps. Curtis (R-Neb) and Thomas E. Martin (R-Iowa). As approved, the new feature will be incorporated in the committee's general tax revision bill.

Under present law, most outlays for soil and water conserving land improvements are rated "capital expenditures." Farmers may take income tax deductions for them only gradually over a period of years.

The approved plan would allow farmers to deduct these expenses from their gross income when figuring their tax for the year in which the outlays were made.

The provision specifies that the expenditures must be for soil and water conservation and the prevention of erosion.

Included would be leveling, terracing, contour furrowing, construction of diversion channels and drainage ditches, control and protection of watercourses, outlets and ponds, planting of cover crops and windbreaks and other special or emergency practices.

Madison Picks Two Coaches

Rue, superintendent of Madison schools, said:

"We want a strong physical education program and I think the board made a swell choice. We have every reason to believe these fellows will work together to further the Madison athletic program."

Walker, 26, graduated from Bowling Green university in February. He has been basketball coach at Shiloh high school since leaving college. His contract calls for $2,800 a year.

Dowler, 27, a graduate of Defiance college, has been coach of all sports at Lodi for two seasons. His six-man football club twice won the Medina county title. His baseball team won the league championship last year and is still in the running for the 1948 title.

Dowler will receive $2,900 and will teach commercial and social science subjects. He is married and has one daughter.

Bill Kopcial will be retained on the Ram staff as an assistant football mentor.

Annexation Hearing Set

A hearing on annexation of two acres from Sharon township to the City of Shelby today was set for July 14 by the county commissioners.

Shelby council March 1 passed a resolution calling for the annexation. Voters of Sharon township approved the annexation at the primary May 4. The annexation is for home development. Chester Monn, Shelby director of finance and public record, said.

The property, which is an extension of Walnut street at the southwest part of Shelby, contains nine lots. It is owned by Carl Stambaugh, publisher of the Shelby Globe. There is one house in the area.

Ashland Man Confesses Crime Wave

Admits Theft of Two Vehicles and Pistols

ASHLAND—Robert H. Bowles, 26, of 507 Virginia avenue, was called for hearing today in Ashland police court on charges of stealing a truck, an auto and two revolvers.

The charges were prepared by Police Chief Harry Smith on the basis of signed confessions.

Medina county sheriff's department provided clues to the car thefts when they notified Ashland police that Bowles had been seen in Medina Sunday and had borrowed money to buy gasoline for a car answering the description of one stolen in Ashland Sunday.

Taken into custody here, Bowles admitted stealing a truck from the Ohio Fuel Gas company here early Sunday and taking it for a joy-ride around town. The ride ended in a wreck on Snader avenue where the truck was found by police.

Bowles, in his confession, stated he then crawled into a parked car to sleep, noticed the keys were in it and decided to drive toward Medina. He ran out of gas there and borrowed money to purchase more but the car broke down and he hitch-hiked home.

CAR FOUND IN MEDINA

The car, property of Howard Miller of Ashland, was found by Medina authorities Sunday with the engine ruined.

In a further confession, Bowles admitted breaking the barbershop window with a bottle of whisky early in March and removing the two German pistols on display in the window. He threw one in Brookside pond later, he said. The second is being held by police.

Before Ashland police obtained custody of Bowles, he was arrested Monday by the sheriff's department on an assault and battery charge. He was charged with striking Richard Stafford in a road-house, breaking the man's glasses and injuring his eye.

GALION—The Galion Junior Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring the local contest for the Ohio Dairy Queen contest which will be held in Columbus June 18, on the Palace theater stage.

Charles Hinckley, jr., past president of the Galion Jaycees, said today that only through local participation can anyone be able to qualify for the state contest.

against Mrs. Merrit, police released Jones's wife, Elia Mae, (Mrs. Merrit's sister) who had been detained for questioning. Attorney George W. Biddle represented Mrs. Merrit at today's hearing.

Detectives said Mrs. Merrit told them the shooting followed an argument between Jones and his wife Monday morning in the C. and P. club.

Mrs. Merrit said she asked Jones's wife for a pistol for "protection." With the gun in her coat pocket, Mrs. Merrit said she walked up North Main street with her four-year-old son, and saw Jones parked in his car on East Temple court.

Mrs. Merrit told detectives she and Jones started an argument over his wife and that when Jones started to get out of his car she "got excited and shot once." She added that she was frightened when she saw the blood on his face and started to run.

Mrs. Merrit's bond was provided by Mrs. Margaret Johnson, 222 North Franklin avenue, shortly before noon, municipal court officials reported.

PAGE FOUR · MANSFIELD, OHIO, WEDNESDAY, MAY 12, 1948

The bigger the family, the better the chances the parents will have a successful child.

No doubt atomic-powered automobiles are being held up until atomicycles can be developed for traffic officers. And a good thing, too.

Grant For TB Sanatorium Is Timely

GRANT of $104,566 in federal funds to the Richland County Tuberculosis Building commission, is a welcome shot in the arm to a project that has had rough going. It is unnecessary to recall in detail the campaigning for two bond issues, the constant revision upward of cost estimates, and the technical difficulties that have beset county efforts to get a good sanatorium for tuberculosis patients.

Need for the new building has been urgent for years. It grows more so daily.

Richland countians will fervently hope that a suitable bid will be found among those to be opened May 19 and that work will start speedily. Certainly the federal grant is both timely and deserved by citizens who have twice voted all they were asked to vote to build this much-needed hospital.

On Condemning the Mundt Bill

OFFICERS of Local 758, United Electrical Workers, CIO, announced yesterday that members of the union have condemned the Mundt bill which is now before congress. It might be well for persons led into expressing such condemnation to check the company they keep.

Communists the country over are yowling against the measure. The communist Daily Worker says: "The bill makes it a crime punishable by 10 years in jail and $10,000 fine for anyone to believe in or advocate or support or associate himself with the program of the communist party . . ."

Well, now, let's see.

The bill sets up the 10-year imprisonment and $10,000 fine, or both, for persons who attempt to establish in the United States a totalitarian dictatorship under foreign control.

Does the Daily Worker mean that the program of the communist party is to attempt to establish in this country a totalitarian dictatorship under foreign control? It couldn't very well mean anything else!

Sweden's Difficult Neutrality

THE DIFFICULTIES always experienced by the occupants of a neutral position are being suffered by the Swedish government nowadays. Some anxieties have been cancelled by the Russo-Finnish agreement, as the Swedes are now free from the fear of a state of armed might on the part of the neighboring Aland islands. But this pact forces Sweden to a strict neutrality in military affairs.

Economic difficulties are the result of Russia's campaign to keep Sweden from helping the European Recovery Program. Part of the assistance program concerns the shipping of large quantities of timber and iron ore from Sweden to Germany. Britain has been shipping coal to Sweden in an attempt to ease its demand for coal from Poland, but Sweden is jittery about any tie-up with western markets. The government of Sweden is against a proposed dollar loan from the United States, partly because it would increase the threat of inflation, partly from this same reluctance to form a definite tie with the western powers. In the meantime Russia watches for an opportunity to step in and "rescue" Sweden from any economic trouble.

It is doubtful whether the advantages of neutrality can outweigh its disadvantages. With the world so clearly divided between the representatives of two opposing ideologies, countries which have heretofore been neutral may find themselves forced to take a stand on one side or the other.

Linking College and Community

PAST EXPERIENCE has frequently shown that a distinct cleavage exists between the interests of a college and those of the community of which it is ostensibly a part. This difference led to active enmity during the early years of European universities, and riots between "town" and "gown" were fairly common in medieval times and even later.

Bard college, a small institution near Kingston, N. Y., is making a determined effort to link its activities with those of the surrounding towns. The program began with the School for Small Business which provides lectures and discussions for business men within a radius of 50 miles. Surveys are made by students to determine the nature and extent of the community's problems, and the college maps out programs aiming at their solution.

A cultural center is now in the process of development, beginning with a summer playhouse and school of the theater. These experiments are actively supported by the community, members of which work closely with the college authorities.

Both town and college should derive benefit from this process. Students who participate in such activities are less likely to be handicapped by intellectual narrowness and better equipped for life in other communities.

Giving Away Tidelands Oil

THE HOUSE has voted to give the states control of what should be a national asset, the tidelands oil. Some congressmen were doubtless trying to please influential constituents, who think state governments easier to control than the federal government.

In the present case, the senate is yet to be heard from. Senators, with six-year terms, are apt to take a longer-range view than members of the house, elected for only two years at a time. They need to take a long-range view of the tidelands oil business.

Eye Smith-Molotov Move Cautiously

WASHINGTON'S plain-spoken and at times bluntly worded bid for "decent and reasonable relationship" with Russia is a historic experiment which may at least produce some clarification of Moscow's intentions.

American Ambassador Walter Bedell Smith has told Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov that "as far as the United States is concerned, the door is always open for full discussion and the composing of our differences." Smith followed this with the forthright assertion that the American people are solidly behind the United States policy toward Russia. Molotov is quoted by the Russian News Agency Tass as replying:

"The Soviet government views favorably the desire of the government of the United States to improve relations . . . and agrees to the proposal to proceed with this end in view to discussion and settlement of differences existing between us."

American diplomatic quarters are examining the Soviet reply with extreme caution. So does this columnist, and he invites readers to do the same. One is reminded of the truism that words are the cheapest commodity on the market and that it's concrete actions which count.

Need For Realism

All honest folk most certainly must wish for good results, but we should approach this test with realism. There is one basic fact which we cannot escape:

All the differences between the United States and Russia stem from the Soviet's cardinal policy of world revolution for the spread of communism. As this column has so often pointed out before, that policy has existed ever since the establishment of the Bolshevist regime in 1917. It is a vital part of the communist program.

We see the concrete effects of this policy in many countries throughout the world. It has even dominated the United Nations to such an extent that the work of the peace organization has been all but hamstrung. It is doing its best to throttle the Marshall plan for rehabilitation of Europe. It is reaching for political control within the United States itself.

This being so, the chief problem before any Russo-American conference must be that of the world revolution for the spread of communism. If Moscow will drop that, and raise its heavy hand from hot-spots like Korea and Greece and Italy, then amicable relations may be restored.

Will Russia be willing to abandon this cardinal policy? I think not. Mind you, I don't believe that Russia wants war at this time. However, all the indications are that she intends to keep right on extending communist influence by strong-arm methods, only holding her hand when it becomes obvious that further aggression may produce war.

Still, it can do no harm and may do some good for Washington and Moscow to get together and table their cards. It may at least give a better understanding of the other, even if relations aren't improved.

Meantime we shall be foolish to expect any slackening of the Red drive, and the democracies will be most unwise if they relax their fight against communist aggression.

Clean Up for Safety.

Clean homes are safer.

Removal of rubbish, piles of papers and winter's accumulation of miscellaneous debris is important in preventing fires. Junk filled basements, cluttered attics and ill-kept garages constitute fire hazards that can be quickly and easily eliminated. As long as they remain on the premises, however, they endanger the lives of all those who live in the home.

Cluttered basement stairs can be just as deadly as a speeding car. A broken hook on a bedroom window screen doesn't seem to be very important until a toddler pushes it and falls two stories to the ground.

Clean up time isn't aimed merely at improving appearances. It also may save lives.—Akron Beacon Journal.

Dave Boone Says:

WELL, there is now a union that can follow you directly to the grave. Over in New Jersey a local of the teamsters union refused to let a group of United States Marines bear the coffin of an Iwo Jima hero and insisted only union pallbearers could do it.

Few news items have aroused Americans more, and a congressional committee summoned the union men to Washington, and after some arrogant back talk from them, got a promise not to do it again. But if ever a word from Bill Green was called for this is the time.

The rank and file of labor men are as outraged as anybody else when the hand of unionism reaches into a funeral, but it seems to me they make a mistake keeping quiet in such a case.

Washington Calling

A Repeat Performance

By MARQUIS CHILDS

WASHINGTON—If it were not so serious in terms of the well-being of the nation and the world, there would be an element of comedy in the politics behind the somewhat faded threat of a railroad strike. The comic overtones of the tragedy center around the harassed, badgered, overworked president in the White House and the labor leaders who have brought down on him this latest burden.

This, it must be remembered, is a repeat performance. Two years ago the nation's railroads were about to come to a dead stop when President Truman intervened in the most dramatic and positive fashion.

As last-minute negotiations were about to break down, the President went before a joint session of Congress to ask the right to draft striking railway men into the Army and thereby compel them to run the trains. His request for such far-reaching power stirred a hornet's nest of protest and denunciation.

From the opposite poles of the Republican party—Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon and Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio—came an attack, with Morse using the strongest language. But the most violent attack came from the trainmen themselves. A. F. Whitney of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen in a burst of fury said he could spend millions of dollars to defeat Mr. Truman.

Whitney's partner in that quarrel of two years ago was Alvanley Johnston, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. While Whitney's union is not one of those involved in the present controversy, Johnston is in the thick of it.

After the railway unions had gone back to work, following Mr. Truman's impassioned plea to Congress in 1946, Whitney set out to make good on his threat. He became an active leader in the Progressive Citizens of America and lost no opportunity to denounce the "haberdashery salesman" who had forced his hand.

President Truman's popularity rose in the opinion polls following his action of two years ago. Many overseas veterans were still coming home and this was a factor in the grave concern throughout the nation over a shutdown of rail transportation.

Then some months ago Whitney made an abrupt about-face. The rail unions are essentially conservative, politically speaking, and the venerable leader of the trainmen could not back Wallace with all the communist connections of the third party. So with appropriate fanfare supplied by the Democratic national committee, Whitney did one of those political somersaults that occasion embarrassing questions from reporters and a slight leer from the public.

* * *

What Unions Forget.

Johnston's union is one of three holding out against a settlement accepted by 19 other rail unions. The latter were willing to take a 15½ cent-an-hour increase. Thus, for a minority of the unions involved, the life of the nation was to be brought to a stop.

Already Senator Joseph H. Ball of Minnesota has revived the idea of a law which would prohibit industry-wide bargaining. Ball led the drive a year ago to include such a ban in the Taft-Hartley act. It was defeated at that time.

The fact that this is an election year is almost certain to prevent any action by this Congress. But the new congress that comes in January of 1949 may well be more anti-labor than the one that is now in its last phase. This is what labor leaders accustomed to having their own way by a show of force seem to forget.

Seeing that 19 unions have already accepted the settlements, the public will conclude that inter-union rivalry must have something to do with the stand of the other three. And the public is at this point not inclined to be patient with the jealousies of union potentates.

As Cerf Tells It

Irving Hoffman reports a characteristic gesture of Monty Woolley when the pair visited Palm Springs recently. Woolley ordered a bouquet of flowers to be sent to the girls who operated the hotel switchboard. "They'll appreciate the thought, I'm sure, Mr. Woolley," purred the cashier. "Appreciate my foot," snarled Woolley. "I thought they were dead!"

Arabs Fear Abdullah Will Grab, Quit

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—Arab leaders have been meeting secretly to plan for the invasion of Palestine, and some of them are not too happy. They don't particularly trust King Abdullah of Trans-Jordan, the central figure of the proposed invasion.

King Farouk of Egypt, Ibn Saud of Saudi Arabia, and the Syrian government fear Abdullah will promote his own greater-Syrian ambitions by annexing part of Palestine for himself and then quit. These fears were increased by a recent secret meeting at Amman between Abdullah and his nephew, Prince Abdul-Ilah, the regent of Iraq. Arab leaders have also got wind of a secret British understanding with Abdullah, giving Trans-Jordan a permanent corridor to the Mediterranetn, in the vicinity of Gaza.

Final agreement on Arab invasion plans was reached at a secret meeting at Serka, Trans-Jordan, on April 23, attended by Representatives of all the Arab states and the Arab higher committee, including the mufti. The main points of the agreement were:

The invasion army to be known as the "Arab League Palestine Army of Liberation." It will comprise the Arab Legion, supplemented by contingents from the regular forces of Egypt, Iraq, Syria, Lebanon, and Saudi Arabia. The contingent from each country will number between 2,000 and 3,500 men. In addition, Egypt and Iraq agreed to supply air force units.

Abdullah was appointed supreme commander, with a general from each Arab state and and two Palestine Arab commanders under him. General Ismail Safurt, British-trained commander-in-chief of the volunteer "Liberation Army," and Fawzi Al Kawkji, present field commander of Arab forces are to be absorbed in the new headquarters at Jericho. Abdullah and the mufti have already moved to Jericho. The mufti's assignment is to watch Abdullah.

Arab states agreed at the secret meeting to finance the operation in proportion to their national resources, not in proportion to their contingents. Egypt is to bear the largest share; Iraq, which gets most of its money from England, is next.

* * *

D-Day, May 16.

D-Day was set for May 16, on which day a Palestine Arab provisional government is to be proclaimed and recognized by the Arab governments.

One significant statement at the meeting was made by the Grand Mufti, who interpreted the state department's and United Nations' failure to become alarmed at previous Arab aggression as a guarantee they would not become excited over the invasion.

If the United States or the United Nations stiffened its attitude, however, it was agreed that Arab strategy might have to be changed.

(Note—Since then, Arab leaders are reported worried over the Jews' ability to defend themselves. This may affect their ardor for invasion.)

No 49th State.

THE Hawaiian statehood bill, which passed the house by a big majority, was secretly scuttled 7 to 5 by the senate interior and insular affairs committee. Republican Sen. Guy Cordon of Oregon and Democratic Sen. Joseph O'Mahoney of Wyoming led the fight for making Hawaii the 49th state, but were overridden behind closed doors by Senators Hugh Butler of Nebraska, the committee chairman, Eugene Millikin of Colorado, and other Republicans.

However, here is the pay-off. After voting down the statehood bill, the same senators decided on another congressional junket to Hawaii—the 14th in the last five years—this time to investigate alleged communism in the islands.

Butler and GOP colleagues apparently were more interested in getting a vacation on the sands of Waikiki at the expense of taxpayers than in granting Hawaii's rightful claim to statehood.

(Note—One unfortunate aftermath of the senate action is that Hawaii's able delegate to congress, Joseph Farrington, who was chiefly responsible for piloting the statehood measure through the house, faces defeat in the next election because his own political party knifed the bill in the senate. Farrington is a Republican.)

* * *

Real-Estate Friend.

WASHINGTON'S real-estate spokesman, Sen. Harry Cain, who tried to scuttle public housing in the senate the other day, blew up a verbal hailstorm on the senate floor.

In the thick of it were two fellow Republicans, Charles Tobey of New Hampshire and Ralph Flanders of Vermont.

"Last Friday," thundered Tobey, "he (Cain) stated that if we adopted his amendment, it would lessen the chances of the house adopting the general housing bill which the senate passed unanimously."

Then, lifting his eyes to the rafters, Tobey appealed: "Are we going to commit hara-kiri? I ask you, sir!"

"Is it hara-kiri," cut in Flanders dryly, "or Harry Cain?"

(Note—Republican leaders in Washington state say that Cain has already committed political hara-kiri.)

Picketing a Congressman.

CONGRESSMAN Aime Forand, Rhode Island Democrat, has finally taken the wind out of the ever-flowing speeches of amiable Congressman Bud Gearhart, California Republican.

Gearhart has been assailing his colleagues with tirades against the reciprocal trade treaties, so every time Gearhart preaches for more than 15 minutes, Forand pickets him.

Gearhart is chairman of the house ways and means subcommittee which is considering whether to continue Cordell Hull's reciprocal trade agreements, and he claims that the reason for secret hearings is to discourage grandstand speeches. Yet he has been the worst offender.

Last week he agreed to cut out all speeches and limit the discussion to questions and answers. Still his lengthy dissertations continued.

Finally, Forand painted a homemade sign which he flashes every time Gearhart exceeds 15 minutes. The sign reads: "Remember Your Agreement!"

Congress In Nasty Mood

By KENNETH L. DIXON

WASHINGTON — It's pretty plain out on Capitol Hill nowadays that this is an election year—and a crucial one.

Tempers have hit a new low in boiling points. And the fights have become viciously personal, as well as political which is an unfailing sign of upcoming campaigns.

Also, it is only natural. After all, when his bread-and-butter is at stake, even a congressman is liable to overlook the rules and step in there to slug and scrape on a no-hold-barred basis.

A private citizen can be forgiven for hoping that the election year short tempers won't result in the setting of a lot of national and international issues purely on a personal or political basis.

An incident the other day indicates how quickly the boys now fly off the handle.

Purely as a result of personal anger, coupled with election year partisan politics, the house of representatives formally approved for the record the right of one congressman to call another a liar in parliamentary dispute.

That's cutting it short and sharp, but that's exactly what it amounted to. And, as far as this correspondent could discover, it has not happened before in current congressional history.

* * *

Minor But Loud.

In point of perspective fact, the dispute involved was a minor thing. It concerned the first deficiency appropriation bill, and Congressman Clarence (Joe) Cannon, the veteran Missouri Democrat who long headed the house appropriations committee and now is the ranking Democratic member, implied that this floor debate was not necessary.

Although not stated, his added implication was that the Republicans had created the floor fuss for political purposes.

Republican Congressman Frank Keefe of Wisconsin, also a committee member, promptly exploded, stressing sarcastically that the accusation which had just been made came from "the distinguished gentleman from Missouri who has the facility for making statements that sometimes do not accord with the facts. . . ."

He continued at length, but the fat was in the fire, statements which do not "accord with the facts" are untruths. A person who has a "facility" for making them is, according to dictionary definition, one with a "dexterity" of an "adroitness" or even a "practiced cleverness" for stating such untruths.

And you know the ugly little word for that type of person.

Congressman Cannon—who, incidently is a former parliamentarian of the House—apparently was too dumbfounded to demand immediately that the charge be expunged from the record.

He waited until the opening of a subsequent day's session before offering a resolution to strike out the offending words. He termed them "a flagrant violation" of the rules of the House which, despite its constant bickering, sets considerable store on parliamentary courtesy.

Under normal circumstances, the words immediately would have been stricken as a mere matter of form—in keeping with the dignity of the nation's legislative halls.

But Keefe stood pat, and in a somewhat startled standing vote of 37 to 33, the House rejected Cannon's request—along straight party lines—and then, on a quorum call and formal roll call vote, repeated the rejection, 171 to 120.

Although obviously uncomfortable after Democratic leader Sam Rayburn of Texas openly pleaded with them not to demean the House by debating "whether or not a member told the truth," the Republicans present voted to a man to keep the charge in the record—thus administering, by party line, one of the most unprecedented and undignified personal face-slappings in congressional history.

When Keefe then arose, as an anti-climax, and asked unanimous consent to have the words stricken from the record, the entire House clearly was anxious to do just that. But this time it was Joe Cannon, smarting from perhaps the most personal insult in his twenty-five years in Congress, who got stubborn.

Sticking out his jaw, he barked to leave the words "in the record to show the partisanship to which this House has descended."

Despite Keefe's protested regrets, he stuck to his guns.

The private citizen can only hope that there are no such hot-tempered and purely party-line demonstrations on vital national and international affairs.

Farmer's Diary

It's Gardening Time

By CALVIN A. BYERS

My Pennsylvania Dutch grandfather used to need a boy to help him and grandmother when they made their garden. I used to be the one.

The hog pen was not far away. From there I hauled the litter and half decayed cobs. The sheep pen stood 50 yards away. The wood ashes from the kitchen fires all winter were in the woodshed. These three points furnished the spice of life to that oldtime garden, which had solid paths between the beds and a row of medicinal "teas" or herbs along one end. Each wheelbarrowful was spread in the newly turned furrow, and to this day, the odor of ammonia when the manure touched the ashes comes to me as a part of real garden-making.

Grandpa was fussy about the bed of medicinal herbs. I never knew all of them, for he gathered some of them wild and transplanted them there, but I remember tansy, sage, cammomile, ditney and various mints. After frost the whole house smelled of herbs, tied neatly in bunches against the rough-hewn rafters. And the whole neighborhood came to grandfather when any were ailing. I guess he might have been a doctor, after a fashion.

The quiet words in Pennsylvania Dutch that passed between my grandparents as they worked together at this annual rite, made an impression on me that I never outgrew. This one small part of all the farm was set apart for the good of the family and friends who sat about grandpa's table. Good health and youthful vigor depended upon it. It was a part of every youngster's education to know how to plant and care for such a plot of ground.

God's blessing was asked upon that fertile spot of land, dedicated to the noblest family use. And it was a privilege to share in the careful planning and tending and harvesting of all the good things that went into the cans and crocks, the drying shed and the root cellar every fall. . . .

A family garden can be a wonderful place. It can bind a family together enjoyably, and bring them closer to real living than they have ever been. To say nothing of the economic gain that comes from having plenty of fresh green food all season, and the deliciousness of vegetables prepared within a few minutes after the picking, and the increased health and spirit that comes from the whole job well done.

Upholstered Furniture

This 2-piece Kroehler Living Room Suite is one we received under the old quota system. We didn't want it to begin with, but here it is. In fact in this style we have one in rose and one in turquoise velour. With balloon type cushions you get regular Kroehler guarantee as to construction. At a reduction from $199 to $119 we should sell a dozen of these suites if we had them. First come, first served.

A Tilt Chair and Ottoman is what everybody wanted when we did not have any. Now that we can supply the demand our customers don't want them. In a natural background tapestry we are interested in knowing whether this $65 outfit will sell at $49.

We've known for a long time that this shade of medium light blue is not our color, but every once in a while some salesman slips it over on us. We accepted this two-piece suite, davenport and chair, and now wish he had it back. Can't do that though. It's not according to rules, so you can have this $280 suite for $177. Good quality velour cover, good construction.

Here's a 2-piece Rose Frieze Living Room suite on which the covering has gone a little fuzzy. A guaranteed suite as to construction. A desired style. Sold originally for $226, was marked down to $169, and still no takers. So before the fuzz turns to long whiskers we want to move it at $127. It's less than cost but this is not the first time we have lost money on a deal—so want it?

We own this Love Seat, but it seems to be unhappy in our surroundings. It's not bad as to construction, styling or the two-tone wine tapestry cover. But its been here too long, and out it goes. Not too expensive at $118, buy it tomorrow at $68. Save $50.

We've hesitated a long time about including this 2-piece suite, because it's a Jamestown suite and many know that that's the best what am. Then we said to ourselves—"We've had the blamed thing for about a year and no suite has any business sticking around that long." It's in the popular Lawson Style, but possibly it's the blue brocatelle cover that's at fault. Regular $375 ticket, someone is going to be lucky enough to own this fine suite for $199.

And here's a lu-lu in two pieces. Davenport and Chair. An overstuffed suite with a walnut trim on the arms and down the front. The factory salesman said it was some type of heavy printed fabric for cover. Not a bad pattern in deep rose. We know it will wear a long time. Should sell for $159. If you like it, it's yours for $109.

Chesterfield Davenport. Try our best, we haven't been able to find anyone who likes this Jamestown made sofa well enough to buy it at its regular price. As you know, it is of the finest construction, but the green stripe tapestry cover seems to be its drawback. One of those things. Its been marked $206.50. We're sure someone will welcome the chance to take this comfortable, quality built davenport home for $109. It's really a buy.

Upholstered Furniture

If you lean toward style and comfort in a lounge chair, here is your dish. In a beautiful rose brocatelle cover, tufted back, best of construction (it's Jamestown) you can buy this $145 for $97, because it is slightly soiled.

Tuxedo Love Seat, from the Grand Rapids Guild Galleries. We wish they had it back. Not that it's not beautiful, because it really is. It's stunning. In a Guild Chartreuse cover. Priced at $229.75 everyone has admired it, but no one has said yes. Its been reduced once, but now we mean to move it. If you have a spot for it, you'll jump at the chance to own it at $119.50. Cheaper than muslin cover. It's a real buy.

Here's a barrel chair chuck full of style. Good design, cocoa color damask cover. Neat pattern, comfortable so far as barrel chairs go, but cover is soiled. $79.50 did not sell it. Then reduced to $59. Still no action. How about $39.75.

Gainsborough Chair is the name given this particular style chair by a very reputable manufacturer. Another maker did not even blush when he stole the design, style, etc., bodily, but of course the quality is not as good. We have two sets of these chairs which are in a print fabric. We want to say "Farewell" to them at $34.75 each. They sell regularly at $55. There is many a home just yearning for a pair of chairs like these.

Sectional Sofa, a three-piece sectional that is really ultra. The kind you see advertised in House & Garden in colors. It's one of that style that is really snazzy, a true decorator's styling, with its flat mohair cover in the popular gray shade, its diagonally welted back with large center buttons, fringed base. And too—it's really comfortable. Fact is, this sectional has been priced at $475 and worth it. Something to really write home about. But its price must hinder its sale. The price is light now, it's yours for $348.

This Lounge Chair has seen better days. It was made in Grand Rapids. It is a blue figured tapestry. We're fed up on looking at it. Reduced once from $109 to $79. No sale, but at $59.50 someone is going to own a really fine chair. Who'll be the lucky one.

Kidney Style Davenport. Now there is absolutely nothing wrong with this Kidney Shape Sofa. The quality we know is of the best, because it's Jamestown. Its blue brocatelle cover might leave something to be desired. But honestly, we have seen much worse. But still for 11 months customers have been passing it up. Perhaps the price of $282 was too much, but certainly at $179 it's a gift. Save $103.

Host and Hostess Chairs. Here is just a case of poor judgment, not on our part this time, but by a factory manager. We had a legitimate order placed for these chairs, with a specified number to be shipped every six months for 18 months. This factory manager got the bright idea of sending them all at once, so now we have them. Here is an opportunity to own really desirable chairs, in attractive covers at a discount of 25% off their regular prices.

Dining Room

Credenza Buffet in Mahogany. Yes we bought this one when odd buffets were hard to get. It's 57-in. long, has drawer in center with roomy cupboard space below and three shelves on each side. In Mahogany finish at $98. It did not sell but now at $57 it should move quick.

18th Century Dining Room Suite. 8 pieces. The only reason this fine mahogany dining room suite is being offered at a greatly reduced price is because we received a shipment of this suite that was not expected. Too many of this one pattern. However, it is an exceptionally good pattern. Has 60-in. credenza buffet, duncan phyfe table, five straight chairs and host chair in attractive cover and at $315 it is not expensive, but at $238 it's a gift.

Bedroom

Hollywood Beds—We have been stuck with these Hollywood Bed Headboards for several years. Full size upholstered in green or rose damask, twin size in green fabricoid. We are tired propositioning customers to buy them. Possibly the price of $20 was too high, but at $5.00 they are a donation.

Maple Bedroom Suite—Frankly we don't know what is wrong with this Maple bedroom suite. Style is above the average, is dust-proof, has center drawer guides. Still it seems to think it has a permanent home in our store. It consists of bed, vanity and chest—sells regularly for $186. Somebody will make an excellent purchase in this suite for child's room or guest room at $119.

Steel Bed—We wouldn't recommend you laying awake nights dreaming about this metal twin bed. It is part of a bunk bed outfit, one of the beds having been sold. It has carried a tag $18.75. You can have this bed at $4.85.

3-Piece Maple Bedroom suite, and it is really made of solid hard white mountain maple—not gum, birch, beech or what have you. The style is excellent, the construction of the best but it consists of poster bed in single size, chest of drawers—all dust proof and night table with drawer and radio compartment. This suite is discontinued and can't be filled in to make a complete suite. The three pieces sell regularly for $186 now at $100 you will really own something fine for a man or boys room—possibly a guest room. See it.

Walnut Bedroom suite in Modern style, waterfall front that we inherited by believing a high pressure salesman. Even though, so he says, dozens of these suites are being sold in this vicinity, we don't seem to interest any one in it. Now rather than have moss accumulate on this $191 suite, it's yours at $139 for bed, vanity and chest.

Boudoir chairs, about a half dozen of them that are soiled. Can be cleaned or slip-covered. Construction is good. Sold up to $38. Now $13.75.

Sunroom, Recreation Room

We were told that people would like light modern birch for sunrooms or recreation rooms. Well some did and some did not and we're left with a davenport and chair and two end tables. These 4 pieces were formerly $169. Someone will jump at the chance to own the group at $127.

If you need a sunroom or recreation room suite let's get together because we have some we don't need. Here is a suite in stick rattan style, a hold-over from last year, in white enamel finish with very attractive green and white cover. This suit is really something, and you will agree when you see it. Consists of davenport, 2 chairs, 2 end tables and cocktail table. All 6 pieces have been priced at $228.50. You will never have regretted paying $169 for it. Tomorrow's price.

Someone really hung one on us in this 3-piece Maple Living Room Suite. Davenport and 2 Chairs. Of course good maple wood is still at a premium, but we're past paying and asking premium prices. The cover is pretty good, too. Now that this suite has come up from scrutiny, we can well understand why it did not sell for $278. But for $169.50 it will most certainly take a ride.

Miscellaneous

End Tables, Lamp Tables and Cocktail Tables in walnut. We have about a dozen of these all told. The makers of these tables tried to copy the designs of a well known manufacturer now out of business, but made a mess of it in finish, construction, etc. These pieces sold up to $25 for the cocktail tables, come in and make your choice at $8.75 and what a licking we're taking.

Taylor-Tots—no they are not the original Taylor-tot but made by a competing factory in the same general style. Just the thing in which to wheel your youngster around. Regularly $14.75 to close out at $6.95.

Fibre Stroller, with hood. We have pushed, pulled and moved this stroller around long enough. In green enamel finish. Some youngster can be made happy. It has been $20. Push it away for $3.95.

Baby Carriages—no nothing to say about them, only we are offering some very interesting special prices on them the balance of this week only.

Cocktail Table, wrought iron with glass top. Someone surely can use this table on the porch, terrace or recreation room. It originally had a print on the under part of the glass which became lost. It should sell for $22 but it's yours at $4.95.

Lamps—Our face gets red when we think of those table lamps. Bought them though when lamps were scarce. Should have bought lanterns instead. Believe it or not they should have sold up to $21. We're glad to lose them now at $5.95.

We have three Kneehole Desks, one in mahogany and two in walnut. From a good manufacturer, but substandard. They look O. K. but are a trifle lacking in some essentials. However that's why we're loosing them at $39.50, were priced up to $59.

Miscellaneous

A Winthrop desk in this same class, mahogany finish, reduced from $55 to $39.

Now here is really a different story. It concerns Hassocks. These hassocks are not out of style, shopworn and all out of tune with things. It is just a plain case of having too many of certain styles (overstocked). So here's the deal. One style that has lift lid so you can utilize the interior for storage of shoes, hats, books, papers, etc., selling regularly for $20 are close-outs at $10.75. A group of conventional style hassocks regularly $13.50 now at $7.95. All colors.

These what-not shelves or corner Pier cabinets leave a lot to be desired. They're 48-in. high and 22-in. wide at base. The design is not bad but the finish and construction is below par. At $12.50 they were well priced. But at $4.75 we're the only one who gets hurt.

Lamp Tables in genuine mahogany. In 18th century styling. They will be a decoration to any well furnished home, but $58.50 must have been too high a price. $34.75 each should entice many a buyer.

Wall Racks—We've got them until they're almost sticking out our ears. We had a wall rack complex last Fall. Here's the deal. All wall racks up to and including $9.75 are "getting the air" for $3.95. We don't make any money but we have a lot of fun.

Pull-up Chairs in quite a grouping. Some are not so old but we don't like the covers. Values up to $38, they're ordered out at $18.75.

Lamps—Here's a group of floor lamps and swing arm lamps which have been here long enough to own the place. Were nice lamps in their day, but they've seen better days. Values up to $42, we're telling them goodbye for $14.95. My, oh my.

Plastic wood, wall or floor finish. We don't belong in this finishing business, but a high pressure salesman did slip this deal over on us. Told us how good it was for linoleum, etc. Well it is a permanent finish and is durable but we still don't want it. It sold regularly for $2.95 a quart. Buy it tomorrow at 97c quart.

We've fallen over this telephone stand and stool long enough. It is made of solid oak and finished to resemble walnut. The set sold for $13.00, now at $4.95. Can be used for kindling later.

Framed Mirrors. Here are some real relics. Only four of them equally divided between buffet or mantel mirrors and straight wall mirrors. The silvering has gone bad but the gold frames and glass are excellent. Can be re-silvered. If we told you what they sold at originally you wouldn't believe it. Original price tags are still on. Take one home at $4.75.

Mirrors — If there is someone around that wants to take a good look at themselves, then grab onto one of these 30"x40" venetian mirrors. This is a new concern with us and the mirror is perfect, the edges are slightly rough. We have finished with this factory and are selling these $23.50 mirrors at $14.75.

Miscellaneous

Breakfast Suite—Do you suppose that because this 5-piece breakfast suite in solid oak, in the Harvest finish, and only priced at $44, was thought to be too cheap to be good and passed up because of the price? Well, tomorrow this suite takes a price of $33 and then if it does not sell we should mark it up to $55, more nearly its true value.

Wrought iron console table with marble top and mirror that has been around here for a long time. Still artistic combination. Has been priced at $40. Ideal for home or office. Cheaper than you could steal a set like this at $15.00.

Lamp tables and coffee table in lucite with plate glass tops. This was a case of bribery. This salesman sold us other lines we needed badly a little over a year ago. To keep him happy we bought these tables from him, a new line he was selling. Most of the pieces have been sold with this three-piece set remaining at $38.75 each. Were marked down to $19.75 and tomorrow they must take the air at $9.75 each.

Carpet

We have 60 yards of 27" plain taupe heather we want to lose. A very heavy quality, fine for halls or stairs. You can have it for $4.95 a yd., plus any labor charges. And that's a buy.

We're sick and tired of falling over this roll of 9-ft. wide broadloom carpet. It's in our way, we have no place to display it. It's an unusually fine quality of ax, but the color seems to be wrong. It has a small figure on a green ground. Someone can use it though at $6.95 a sq. yd. It sells regularly at $11.50.

Bath Rugs—We don't snow these bath rugs and small size tufted rugs often enough to even keep the dust off them. So now they are dusty and slightly soiled. Your first washing will put them back in tip top shape. Buy them as is, at ⅓ off.

Here is fine Axminster carpet that just arrived, and just in time to break into print. There is exactly 112 yards of it and as the factory calls it, a Scandinavian Modern design in a lime mint green color. Do you know what color that is. Well, it's just what it says. So far everyone around the store is sort of side-stepping it. Maybe you would like to walk all over it at $6.50 a yd., because it is supposed to sell at $8.50. See it, if it's your color you might like it immensely.

Linoleum

Linoleum — 5⅔ sq. yds. heavy gauge marbelized linoleum. Slightly damaged. Buy the piece tomorrow for $7.50.

Inlaid Linoleum—19½ sq. yds. domestic weight linoleum was cracked in shipment to us. Still usable. If you can use this marbelized light pattern it's yours at $1.50 a sq. yd.

31 1-6 sq. yd. ⅛" marbelized linoleum. The extra heavy kind with burlap back. This linoleum was also cracked by the Transit company. It's a rare buy at $2.95 sq. yd.

Some short lengths of linoleum at ½ price.

Child Will Enjoy New Picture Book Entitled 'At Our House'

AT OUR HOUSE by John McCullough is more fun than most picture books. I am especially fond of books where you can look inside houses and stores. In this book we do it on every page. In the first picture our house is all dark. You can just see the walls. Then the light upstairs goes on and you can see right into the room. In the next picture someone else gets up, puts on a light and you can see another room. So it goes. Then as the family goes to work you can see inside the school house, the stores and Daddy's office. At night you can see the lights go off, room by room, until the house is dark again. This book should be read at least ten times!

We have many books about boys and girls exploring it caves, getting lost, being chased, and being frightened. Imagine what it would be like to be lost in a deep, dark cave with no light, with no idea of how to go or even not knowing if you are just going round in circles. Horrible, isn't it? Now, imagine how much worse it would be if you believed in demons and witches, if you believed that every stone was a devil trying to kill you, if in the underground river there dwelt a witch who clutched at you when you fell in. If you can imagine that then you are all set to read BEWITCHED CAVERNS by Leona Rienow. It is the story of two prehistoric children and the strange things that befell them.

Rowena Bennet's STORY TELLER POEMS is a varied collection that will satisfy everyone somehow. If you like funny poems read "Magic Pepper Can"; if you like them fanciful read "Day Is Dancing"; and "Jack-in-the-Pulpit" is serious.

One of the best ways of knowing about past days is through studying the things that people used. You can learn more about the Pilgrims by looking at and examining their homes, dishes, coaches, etc., than you can by reading about them. Actually making things like those that were used years ago, or models of them, can be educational as well as fun. HISTORIC MODELS OF EARLY AMERICA by C. J. Maginley describes engines, coaches, wagons, boats, etc., of various periods in history. Also, there are complete directions for making the models. This is a collector's paradise. If you aren't a collector, for goodness sake, start now.

SOMEBODY ELSE'S SHOES by Florence Lowe is a sort of fairy tale that might be true. Grandma said that if you put on someone else's shoes you would be that person, feel what he felt, like what he liked and know what he knew. Evalina tried it and it actually worked. She found out what it's like to be a teacher—and imagine how surprised she was when she found that "Teacher" ate cookies between meals. She found out how a spoiled brat feels. Evalina's experience was confusing and sometimes difficult for her—it will be fun for you.

MR. TWIG'S MISTAKE by Robert Lawson is too good to spoil by telling even a little of it. Mr. Twig made cereal and one morning he made a terrible mistake. He put up a whole package of pure vitamin! The book tells what happened to that one package. Whatever you do—don't miss it!

STORY BEHIND GREAT BOOKS by Elizabeth Montgomery is a collection of material. Are you interested in how books came to be written? What kind of people write books? How did Louisa Alcott come to write "Little Women"? What made Jonathan Swift think of "Gulliver's Travels"? You'd be surprised at some of the answers. It's always fun to know what goes on behind the scenes. Read Miss Montgomery's book and see. Wouldn't it be even more fun to hear a living author tell about her books?

If Princess Has Twins, What Happens?

By RUSSELL LANDSTROM

LONDON—If the rumor that Princess Elizabeth is expecting a baby is true, what are the chances she'll have twins?

They could hardly be dimmer, genealogists reckon.

Prompted by the rumors the princess may be a mother before the year is out, experts dug into royalty's history all the way back to William the Conqueror—and got one of the surprises of their lives.

They found no record, in the nearly one thousand years, of any twin births to royal couples in near succession to the British throne.

"A most remarkable thing," they said.

"Apparently," they went on, "nobody has bothered before to look into the matter. Imagine! Among the hundreds and hundreds of births in the royal families of Britain over the centuries and not a single trace of twins close to the crown!"

It is reasoned, therefore, that the odds are heavy—probably thousands to one—against Elizabeth's having twins.

Birth of twins to an heiress presumptive or to a reigning queen might raise knotty questions about the order of succession. Both genealogists and court sources agreed, however, that in the absence of precedent, those questions would have to be dealt with "in unique fashion." The chief complication, of course, might arise from birth of male twins havingly seemingly equal claim to the throne. Likelihood of joint sovereignty is pretty much discounted.

Household Hints

A lemon butter sauce with slivered almonds is perfect for baked or broiled fish. Sliver the almonds first, then saute them in melted butter or margarine and add the lemon juice just before serving. Serve immediately so the almonds are crisp and delicious.

Fresh fruits are often scarce at this time of year so menu makers shy away from serving fruit salads. Here's a popular salad you can make any season. Arrange a mound of seasoned cottage cheese on crisp greens and surround with spiced prunes and orange slices, cut in half. Alternate the two colors around the cheese and serve with French dressing.

Combine mayonnaise with chopped ripe olives, chopped parsley, sweet pickle, a dash of cayenne pepper, salt and lemon juice to taste, for a fish sauce that will add plenty of good taste to any fish. Serve it cold, or spread over cooked fish and place under the broiler just long enough to make it bubbly.

WRINKLE PROOF COTTONS

A new wrinkle resistant finish is now being successfully applied to all types of cottons—ginghams, piques, chambrays, prints, seersuckers, denims, corduroys, coverts and other cottons. The finish is said to be highly durable with effectiveness retained after many severe wash testings. It is expected the new finish will reach consumers on a large scale in the spring and summer of 1949.

Teachers Give Their Ideas On Parents

School teachers have their problem parents as well as their problem children.

Any teacher will tell you that if she had a choice she would much rather deal with a problem child than a problem parent, according to a House Beautiful magazine.

"How I wish someone would tell parents some of the things they do to make our job more difficult," one young teacher sighed.

A set of rules for parents to follow to avoid being problem parents are incorporated in the article. They are: (1) don't rush to school to see about your child's work or deportment at the slightest provocation. (2) don't send frequent notes to school; (3) don't busy yourself too much with your clubs, career or friends to bother with school activities, (4) don't let your children go to the movies or stay up so late at night that they are sleepy in class next day; (5) don't shirk your responsibility to see that the children do their homework and then blame the teacher for downgrading them when they fail to get it in; (6) don't give your children too much help at home so they can't think for themselves in school; (7) don't encourage your children in criticising the teacher; (8) don't take your children's word for everything that happens in school; (9) don't be over-protective; and (10) don't assume a vaguely patronizing air toward those who teach your children."

WHILE financial, business, professional and social affiliations are under excellent stimuli for success and happiness, with home and romantic ties especially indicated for important consideration, yet there may be need for definite prudence, vigilance and discretion. An undertone of the tricky, subtle and pernicious makes it advisable to take all sinister possibilities into all manner of activities. Slander, gossip and suspicion may undermine the most promising of activities. Be wise in emotional urges.

For the Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may have a measure of success and expansion in financial, business and professional interests, providing they take into rigid account the personal affiliations and contacts. These are under a sinister sign in which betrayal and intrigue may undermine the most alluring prospects, with malicious attack on the character, reputation, and motives. Any semblance of indiscretion, peculiarities, or weird behaviorism, could have sinister reactions on health, progress, home and social standing. Any show of erratic emotional urges could be detrimental to success.

A child born on this day while having some promise of success and progress, yet may be intrigued into dangerous and ruinous situations by its eccentricities or indiscretions, unless given early emotional training.

Toledo Lady Loses 32 Lbs. With This Home Recipe

"I am 32 years of age," writes Mrs. Walter Kruse, 623 Orchard St., Toledo 9, Ohio, "and I have lost 32 pounds while taking Rennel Concentrate. Before using Rennel I had colitis so bad I was in misery all the time but since the first bottle I have begun to reduce and had wonderful relief."

Hundreds of others have obtained similar relief from the social and physical discomfort of being overweight. Why not try this effective yet inexpensive method of reducing and enjoy the pleasures of feeling younger and more alive. Try Rennel and notice the admiring looks you will receive from your friends as your figure becomes younger and your vitality increases. Just go to your druggist and ask for 4 ounces of liquid Rennel. Pour the contents into a pint bottle—add enough unsweetened grapefruit juice to fill the bottle and then take two tablespoonfuls a day. That's all there is to it. If you aren't satisfied with the results return the empty bottle to the manufacturer and your money will be refunded. You need never know a hungry moment while taking Rennel—no starvation diet—no printed diet list to buy—no vitamins to fortify you against weakness while going hungry, for you WON'T be hungry. Don't be switched to another product. Insist on the genuine Rennel.

Rotarians Hear Story of India

Gandhi's Philosophy Seen Way to Peace

The late Mahatma Gandhi, a man of peace, accomplished more with truth alone than Hitler accomplished with all his millions of men and arms, P. G. Krishnayya, a Hindu editor told the Mansfield Rotary club yesterday at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

Krishnayya, who studied at Columbia and New York universities, is editor and publisher of the "Orient and U.S.A." and managing editor of "India and U.S.A. News Service."

"Gandhi never treated any person unkindly, and perhaps his method of winning the peace could accomplish more than the threat of arms is doing now in an attempt to preserve peace," Krishnayya said.

"Hinduism in my country has successfully existed and progressed for nearly 5,000 years.

"There has never been any religious or racial intolerance in my country, because we realize that a man has nothing at all to do with his being born.

DESERVES TO LEAD

"This is my fourth trip to your country and next to my own country, it is the country I like best. America, the victor in two World wars has won the right to lead the world.

"Your noted personality, Will Rogers, once said 'My country has never lost a war nor won the peace,' but I hope that this time you have won the peace," Krishnayya said.

In India, Krishnayya is a member of the House of Tirmul Naick whose descendants ruled over the greater part of southern India and Ceylon for nearly 500 years before the British occupation of India. He formerly held the rank of lieutenant in the British army.

In 1935-36 U. S. families on relief had no physician's care in 30 per cent of the cases of disabling illness they experienced, compared with 17 per cent for families with incomes of $3,000 a year or more.

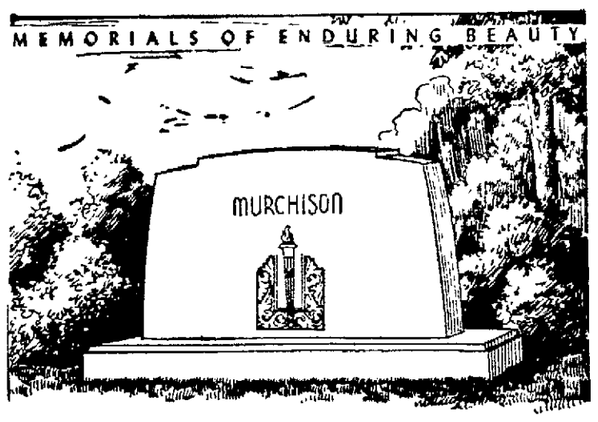
WE RESPECTFULLY OFFER A SYMBOL OF IMMORTALITY
GEORGIA Crystalline MARBLE



SUNSET and the EVENING STAR
A perfect memorial is like a perfect poem—both impart an esthetic satisfaction. Then, too, there is a deep spiritual comfort to be had from a monument that combines beauty of material and design, for beauty that endures is the only fitting tribute to a cherished memory. The true memorial is more than gleaming stone that gives the landscape a beautifying touch. It is, in the final analysis, a symbol of immortality—a perpetual tribute to a living memory. Therefore choose wisely. That the monument which enshrines your memory may endure.
A memorial can be a living thing of everlasting stone. When properly designed it appears—like the trees, the flowers, and the grass—to have grown from the earth upon which it rests. Here memories will thrive, and, like great oaks, flourish through the years.
Approved By Scientists
There is no other monumental or building stone quarried from the earth's crust that is more dense, solid, compact, and impervious to moisture than Georgia marble.
Tested By Scientists
The scientific tests of the U. S. Bureau of Standards and the U. S. Geologic Survey showed that Georgia marble absorbed only one-third to one-fifth as much water as the other materials tested.
Our years of experience as memorial craftsmen have given us the ability to be of real service to our clients.

A New Name for a PUBLIC SERVICE

With the approval of its stockholders, the name of Columbia Gas & Electric Corporation has been changed to

THE COLUMBIA GAS SYSTEM, INC.

Since the Corporation divested itself of its electrical properties under the provisions of the Public Utilities Holding Company Act, the new name becomes more descriptive of the System's functions in public service.

The Corporation and its operating subsidiaries have long been known, unofficially, as the COLUMBIA GAS SYSTEM. Now, with the formal approval at the Annual Stockholders Meeting on April 29th at Wilmington, Delaware, the new corporate title becomes official.

COLUMBIA GAS SYSTEM serves 1,000,000 homes, businesses and industries with natural gas directly through its own distribution lines, and another 800,000 customers through wholesale deliveries to other utilities in cities such as Washington, D. C., Cincinnati and Dayton, Ohio. Last year the System delivered 231 billion cubic feet of gas through some 31,000 miles of transmission and distribution lines. The System is even now preparing to deliver by 1950 in excess of 300 billion cubic feet of natural gas annually.

Walter Lippmann Speaks

Europe Objects to Outside Domination

"But our aim here said Mr Churchill to the Congress of Europe 'is not confined to western Europe We seek nothing less than all Europe"

Is this a dream? Or is it an aim which responsible governments in Europe can take seriously and which this country can support?

If we think of the unification of Europe in terms of a federal union comparable with our own in its integration and centralization of authority, we cannot I think in any near future expect to see it achieved

Even the Benelux nations have not yet in fact resolved the disparities of their currencies and their prices and terms of trade. The British dilemma, as between their role in Europe and their interests in the Commonwealth and Empire, is not in sight of being resolved

The sense of a common European destiny is indeed thin and abstract as between the progressive countries of northern Europe the Scandinavians the Dutch and the Belgians on the one hand and on the other the countries of the Balkan and Iberian peninsulas

Nevertheless once every allowance has been made for the divisions, there is almost certainly a deep and growing feeling all over the continent that somehow all of Europe has a common interest in becoming an independent great power in the world It is to this feeling that Mr Churchill with his genius for discerning the reality of things addressed himself

It is the feeling of course that the domination of Europe, or of any large part of it by Russia is in the end intolerable that it would be intolerable even if Russia were not communist even if Russia were not a police state

NATIONALISM STRONG

Though it is impossible to prove it I think it is true that in eastern Europe—I am thinking particularly of Poland and Czechoslovakia—the greatest and strongest and most genuine sentiment is not pro-communism or anti-communism but nationalism rooted in religion and in history which causes almost all Poles and Czechs to identify their patriotism with membership in the community of Europe

The issue is deeper than whether industries shall be nationalized or the land redistributed far deeper than whether they shall remain within the Russian diplomatic orbit It is whether the regime of their lives shall conform with what they are and have been throughout their history nations belonging to European civilization and not to an alien civilization which has had its center in Byzantium St Petersburg and Moscow

But it is not only this feeling that Russia is an intruder in Europe which possesses the nations of Europe In a different way they feel also that their dependence upon America for sustenance rehabilitation and protection is however necessary today in the long run intolerable

If they cannot be slaves to Russian despotism neither can they be clients of the American republic.

We must welcome that feeling which is general in Europe and most emphatic among those Europeans with whom we are most closely associated If this feeling did not exist the best hope of the European recovery program would be doomed to frustration

The unifying sentiment of the European nations not socialism or anti-communism but the will to be masters in their own continent, to be independent again and to be not the stakes of Soviet American diplomacy — but to be a power in their own right in order to decide the fate of Europe and the destiny of the world This sentiment which springs from their dignity and the remembrance of their historic greatness, is fortified today by the fear that if they do not intervene in the diplomatic struggle their continent will become a battlefield on which non-European powers fight a war

If this is indeed the sentiment in Europe what is the chief difficulty about arousing it to action? It is the memory of Hitler's attempt to unify Europe under Nazi domination The great task of the Congress of Europe and of its leaders like Mr Churchill is to prove that Germany can be taken into the European community They have to prove that to the Poles and the Czechs and also to the west Europeans

RESINOL OINTMENT

Piles Are Never "Mild"
DANGER IN NEGLECT
No one should ever think of piles (hemorrhoids) as a "mild" disorder
Although they may seem a "mild" ailment, especially when not giving pain or inconvenience, piles are in fact tumor formation without tendency to heal themselves, instead, they are likely, if neglected to keep increasing in size, involving more and more of the rectal area
Even a so-called "mild" case may be expected to undermine one's health, by inviting predisposing to or aggravating other ailments, such as indigestion, biliousness stomach trouble constipation headaches, pain in back and down the legs, secondary anemia with its run-down tired feeling and general nervous irritability
Removal of piles is the only permanent relief—written guarantee My method produces little or no discomfort does not require the use of knife or drugs, and seldom is the patient required to lose any time from work or other duties

Vets Entitled To Review

Some Question Bonus Payments

Ohio veterans in doubt as to the correct payment on their Ohio bonus checks will be given the opportunity to review their claims with World War II Compensation Fund.

"Some of the Ohio veterans who have received their bonus checks believe that they did not receive full payment," Major General Chester W. Goble, director of the World War II Compensation fund, announced today in Columbus.

This belief is due in most part to the applicant's forgetting that the compensable period of time is from Dec. 7, 1941, (Pearl Harbor Day) to Sept. 2, 1945, (V-J Day).

"All checks received by Ohio bonus applicants are for the full settlement of their claims unless the check is accompanied by a statement from the bonus director indicating otherwise," General Goble said.

"Requests for review and re-examination must be written to the Director of the World War II Compensation Fund within 60 days from the day that the check is received," he said.

"Any applicant believing his check to be made out for an insufficient amount need not delay in cashing it. Cashing such a check will not prejudice any right for a re-examination."

Income Tax Ups and Downs Show Degree of Freedom In U. S.

THERE WERE good enough motives behind the proposal of Clare Hoffman, the congressman from Michigan, to forbid by law the publication of informatioon which congress should stamp "confidential." But the remedy here offered for the flagrant violation of the secrecy of information obtained by a law under a promise of confidence was just a forlorn pass at a condition which is essential to the "liberal" form of government.

It is essential to "liberalism" and hostile to the liberty and dignity of Americans as understood in the original spirit of the Constitution. Adolf Hitler was the consummate "liberal."

Hitler said the kraut existed for the state, and that was all there was to it.

The American exists for the state to a degree fixed by a sliding scale in the current internal revenue act.

He is at this writing a few points more a man and less a robot than he was a year ago, but that is by virtue of a Republican campaign tax-law.

Next year, when we have turned the rascals out, the military expense will make necessary a big rise in the taxes. Then an American who works, say, 50 days out of 1948 for the state and for Great Britain, France, Italy and other peace-loving nations, may have to work 75 days for them.

The obligations put upon him by Congress, including the anguished Mr. Hoffman of Michigan, will include mighty tabs for caviar, steaks, booze, affectionate company and rooms en suite at the Waldorf for the delegates to the United Nations. The Waldorf bills their governments or the agents thereof and those governments, in due course, forward the bad news back to Washington, D. C.

There these bare necessities of the bleak and selfless life of the roistering ascetics of the old world are finally paid for in the sweat of Americans. Meanwhile the citizens can't get in at the Waldorf and couldn't afford it, after taxes, if they could.

In the original debates on the income tax, as long ago as the Civil war and later in 1894 and 1909, earnest opponents of this intrusion on the citizen's personality raised the warning that the thing which Mr. Hoffman complains of would come to be.

They were historic objections, but we had had our share of German socialist immigrants and other continentals in whom the herd instinct was stronger than personal manhood.

Their influence helped put over a constitutional amendment by which now it is proposed to limit the citizen's income, not to raise money, the avowed purpose in the first place, but to prevent his flaunting a new suit, car or wife in the face of his neighbor who must struggle along with his old one.

Now it is used to pay the costs of the British government which, in turn, is using its own income tax to confiscate entirely the incomes of competent and diligent Britishers and make them sell their securities at a ruinous loss.

It was immediately seen that statements of income and of what the citizen did with it must be given under the penalties for perjury. Such information previously was nobody's business but his own. We are so long and so thoroughly inured to this impudence that we don't know that privacy ever did exist. The American who lived before the income tax didn't even have to tell his right name. He was not fingerprinted, even by the army.

Judge Agrees With Columnist; Late Senator Had a Monument

FROM THE ASSOCIATED PRESS May 5th: "Special Sessions Justice M. Simmons, in dismissing a complaint of criminal libel against the Daily Mirror, the Hearst corporation and Walter Winchell, said: 'The remarks in Winchell's column about him (H. I. Katibah) are a very feeble understatement and characterization.'"

Memo from Girl Friday: "The judge delivered a lengthy oral opinion in which he said you and the Daily Mirror 'had made a great contribution to the public welfare in printing the Meet the Arabianazis column'."

Chicago's Ashton Stevens has been ill, but Mrs. Stevens assures intimates he will be okay.

Katharine Cornell and other stars bombarded his sick room with wires, one of which came from a N. Y. colyumist: "You're in bed with the wrong thing!"

Letter from a friend at Geneva: "At the International Free Press Conference a delegate from the Iron Curtain stopped me and said: 'How can we deal with the lies of your Walter Winchell?

"I am sure," he was told, "that if he were asked he would print your statements. If, that is, you would print his answers in your newspapers. In fact, I'll make the offer for him right now."

"To which he said: 'No, we are a people of one mind and our government expresses it'."

★

Ted Mack's memo: "The Palestine Jews are putting up a great fight. The Arabs are putting up a Great Britain."

★

"Dear Winchell," reports A. Thoritative Source, "After vacationing with the Eisenhowers, George Allen (the General's longtime friend) told a New York mag writer Ike is interested in politics. He wasn't interested in the Republican nomination because he knew he'd have no control. That's not true of the Democratic nomination. Ike feels deeply that this country must never again go isolationist. He likes Vandenberg and he likes Truman. If the Republicans do not nominate an isolationist, Ike won't be receptive to any nomination. But if they nominate an isolationist, he will take the Democratic bid, if offered him. Ike is my boy provided Harry Truman isn't a candidate. I'm for Truman first, last and always."

E. Mansfield School Bid Accepted

Adding of 4 Rooms To Cost $31,133.94

The bid of $25,575 by the Howard Construction company of Columbus for the erection of four additional rooms to the East Mansfield school building was accepted yesterday afternoon by members of the Madison township school board. Bids were opened in the Madison high school office.

The Bellville Electric Appliance company of Bellville was awarded the contract of wiring and electrical fixtures at a bid of $993.94.

The Charles Hoffman company was given the contracts both for plumbing and for heating and ventilating. Hoffman's plumbing bid was $1,724 and that for heating and ventilating, $2,830.

Total construction costs of $31,133.94 also includes the installation for the first time of showers in the building and markers for the shower rooms.

Charles Marr of New Philadelphia is the architect for the building project.

The four additional rooms at East Mansfield school will be built on the second floor, two at each end. They will be built of brick to match the present elementary school.

Work will be started as soon as materials can be assembled. Olan LaRue, Madison township superintendent, said today. Madison township schools will close officially on May 21, and, it is hoped, LaRue said, that work can be started soon after that date.

Check Road Relocation

A "plan-in-hand" inspection of the proposed relocation of State Route 13 has been scheduled for the last week in May, County Engineer Walter E. Rusk today reported.

The inspection will be made by engineers of the Public Roads administration, who have the authority to approve or change construction plans.

Meanwhile, the state highway department office reported good progress on the preparation of construction plans, Rusk said.

Engineers of the highway department, E. Fred Rule and Ray Stull were in Mansfield yesterday with incidental plans for the approaches and intersections of side roads with the highway. The side roads are maintained by the county.

Rusk said that if the state highway department offices at Bowling Green and Columbus are able to check and examine the plans within four or five weeks, there is a good chance for a late July sale of the project.

The rebuilt portion of the highway, consisting of three and one-half miles around the eastern side of the airport, will cost about $500,000. Most of the money will come from state and federal funds, with Richland county and Mansfield each paying $25,000, and paying for the right-of-way.

Rusk said some difficulties are being encountered in damage settlements on the established right-of-way, but that these will be worked out well ahead of the date of sale.

Dies In West

Word was received today by Howard Pollock, 597 Park avenue west, of the death of Miss Laura Pollock in Los Angeles. She was a former resident of Mansfield. The funeral will be held in Los Angeles, Friday.

'NEW LOOK' OF AIR FORCE—New planes in the projected 70-group Air Force (6,869 planes include the Boeing B-50 heavy bomber, Lockheed P-80 Shooting Star jet, Curtiss-Wright P-87 four-jet all-weather fighter, North American P-86 jet fighter, North American B-45 four-jet bomber, Republic P-84 Thunderbolt. The Air Force plans to buy 2,727 new planes right away in a five-year modernization program which will bring the total plane strength to 12,441 of all types, with emphasis on attack.—(International)

Red Cross Considers Joint Fund Drive

The question of a joint civic fund campaign will be considered by national headquarters of the American Red Cross, Frederic S. Laise, assistant manager of the Eastern area, told Richland county members at their annual meeting last night.

"But it is my opinion that campaign procedure will remain in its present status," Laise declared.

The question was brought up by W. F. McCartney, of the Westinghouse Electric corporation who said an attempt would be made at the local plant to establish a fund to take care of all civic contributions, such as the Red Cross roll call. It would be patterned after the plan used at the Empire Steel corporation, McCartney said.

"It is a question that has kept popping up and you may be assured that the national Red Cross will give it serious consideration," Laise asserted. "However, there are several reasons why I think our present plan will not be changed. The most important is that in joining with other fund organizations, the Red Cross loses its individuality.

"And since the Red Cross is not an organization in the usual sense, but is you and you and you in a volunteer sense, it is my opinion that it won't be done. In 10 years we would lose our direct contact with the individual donor, which is the very thing upon which the Red Cross is founded."

STRESSES INDIVIDUALISM

It was that individualism or the volunteer worker formation of the Red Cross that Laise stressed in his talk last night.

"Basically", he said, "the Red Cross is a group of people all over the world who are equally concerned with the quality of mercy, both in war and peace. That quality of being equally concerned with mercy is prevalent in China as well as the United States and in France as well as in China. It is a world-wide quality that is promoted by just such volunteer workers as you people here tonight."

Frank Elias, chapter chairman, presided at last night's meeting, attende by about 50 Red Cross members. The secretary's report was given by Mrs. Leta Maxwell and a partial treasurer's report by Dean Eckert.

Since the fiscal year has been changed this year from Jan. 1 to June 30, the report for the past year and a half of service will not be published until the end of June.

OUTLINES PLANS

Mrs Bess Augsburger, executive secretary of the Richland county chapter, outlined plans for the next year, beginning July 1. Among future plans, she said, is one for a disaster preparedness institute in which a Red Cross specialist, probably from the Eastern area, will come to Mansfield to train and confer with volunteer workers of the disaster preparedness program in the county. The program here is under the direction of Allen Bond.

Mrs. Augsburger said the water safety and first aid program under Gerald Coron will be enlarged next year to take in many other organizations in the city. Other departments will continue their extensive programs of service as in the past, she said.

New executive board members elected for a three-year period were Mrs. J. O. Hanley, C. N. Sutton and Fred Tracy. Old members re-elected included: J. B. Conard, Robert Black, W F. McCartney, Samuel H. Campbell, Dean A Eckert, Thomas J. McDermott and Mrs. Dewey Reynolds.

Air Power On Upgrade

Congress Adopts 70-Group Bill

By JAMES J. STREBIG
(AP Aviation Reporter)

NEW YORK—(AP)—Adop[illegible] of a 70-group air force program by Congress merely starts the wheels toward a modern flying, fighting force of that size. It could not be achieved in less than two years.

If a war emergency occurred tomorrow, the first decision forced upon military leaders would be whether to retool for World War II planes or try to push development of post-war types, most of them jets.

Tooling for large volume production of most p[illegible] that served in the recent war has been destroyed.

At the same time, jet aircraft have not yet been developed to a state satisfactory for combat use.

The bill at the White House today represents approximately $3,000,000,000 provided by Congress in advance of regular military appropriations so that the job of producing can be started. Most of the money is authority to contract for military aircraft. With a few exceptions, delivery will be made during the fiscal years ending in June 1950 and 1951.

The authority provided in the bill is intended to purchase 4,262 warplanes—2,727 for the Air Force and 1,535 for the Navy.

The Air Force is operating around 4,000 combat planes today, while under a 70-group program it will have about 6,300.

If an immediate [illegible]on became necessary, the Air Force could draw on the 12,000 planes it has in storage, although Air Secretary Symington has said only 2,000 of these are types which fit into the modernized program.

WINS SCHOLARSHIP—

Marjorie Selby, young Mansfield singer and senior at Senior high school, was walking on air today. She heard this morning that she had won a coveted three-year scholarship at the Curtis Institute of Music in Philadelphia. Two weeks ago Monday, Marjorie went to the Institute for an audition, under the sponsorship of A. Lemoine Derr, Mansfield music supervisor. "This is history or Mansfield," Derr said today. "It's the first time that a young Mansfield singer has won the scholarship, a prize sought all over the country." Marjorie was a little too thrilled to have much to say, except that she would study under Madame Gregory and that she expects to take up concert work. Marjorie is the daughter of Mrs. Edith Selby, a former resident here, who now lives in Zanesville. Marjorie will remain in Mansfield until after graduation, then will join her mother. She will enroll at Curtis next fall.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY—

Although Freh Huber, 174 Carpenter road, is a year older today, he will not do much celebrating until his son, Bob, comes home from Denison and his daughter, Marge, from Ohio State. That will be Sunday and the family will join in a birthday observance for Dad. A member of Venus lodge and other Masonic bodies, Huber likes to fish when his health permits. But for the past three years he has stayed pretty close to home because of ill health.

Attackers Leave As Victim Shouts

A husky voice saved Walter R. Hainer, 62 Bartley avenue, from being victimized by a pair of strong-armed men who accosted him on North Mulberry street last night.

Hainer told police he shouted for help when the two men tried to force him into his car in front of Dr J L Stevens's office at 62 North Mulberry street. As a result, the men walked away without taking anything or further molesting him.

Hainer, who reported the incident to police at 8:05 p. m immediately after the experience, said the two men accosted him as he was entering his car. One of the men pushed what Hainer thought was a gun against his jaw and said, "Get over!" At the same time the other man walked around to the other side of the car. Hainer said.

$35 Taken From Shop

Mardell Marquis, proprietor of Mardell Beauty shop, 16½ East Fourth street, reported to police yesterday that 35 in pennies and coat valued at $30 were stolen from her shop.

Police investigation disclosed that there was no attempt to gain forcible entry and they reasoned that entrance was made with the aid of a key.

8 Secret Charges Listed

Arraignments Set Friday

Two men accused in the robbery of the Wade and Roberts restaurant at Orchard Park April 5 were indicted late yesterday by the Richland county grand jury on charges of armed robbery.

Named in the indictments were Wallace R. Black, 29, Cleveland, and Donald DeVere Bowman, 24, Columbus.

Proprietors of the resturant said $248 was taken at gunpoint by a bandit who forced patrons into a back room. A second man waited at the door during the robbery. Black and Bowman were arrested 20 minutes later in Mt. Vernon.

The indictments were among nine true bills returned by the grand jury after a two-day session. The jurors returned eight sub rosa indictments and refused to indict in four other cases. Twenty-eight witnesses were examined in 21 cases.

Defendants named in the charges will be arraigned before Common Pleas Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch Friday at 1 p. m.

Robert C. Mason, 35, and Edithgene Church, 22, of 744 Bowman street, were indicted for making and printing lewd and obscene pictures and on a second count of selling lewd and obscene pictures to Joe Russ.

Mason's wife, Hazel, 41, of the same address, was indicted on one count of making and printing obcene pictures.
